

Simmons Library Teaching Support for Faculty

The Simmons Library is committed to supporting faculty teaching and toward that goal provides the following services to assist Simmons faculty:

- In-Class Instruction

Would you like your students to know what information resources and services are available to them through the library? Consider inviting a librarian into your classroom for a customized library instruction session. Contact a subject librarian directly or the Interim Instructional Services Librarian, Kelly Jo Woodside at x2510 or kelly.woodside@simmons.edu to arrange an in-class instruction session.

- Research Consultations for Individual Faculty, Students, and Groups

Need help identifying resources to use in your teaching? Are your students going to be doing major resource discovery for your course? Make an appointment with a subject specialist or reference librarian. Contact your designated subject librarian directly or the Reference Services Librarian, Rex Krajewski at x2756 or krajewsk@simmons.edu, to arrange a reference consultation:

Rex Krajewski – CAS	2756	rex.krajewski@simmons.edu
Bill Gillis – CAS	2822	william.gillis@simmons.edu
Gianna Gifford - SSW and Psychology (CAS)	2777	gianna.gifford@simmons.edu
Vivienne Piroli – SHS	2752	vivienne.piroli@simmons.edu
Linda Watkins - GSLIS	2824	linda.watkins@simmons.edu
Linda Wolf - SOM	3851	linda.wolf@simmons.edu
Kelly Jo Woodside – Career, Study Abroad, Internships, Graduate School	2510	kelly.woodside@simmons.edu

- Archives for Primary Sources

Would you like to utilize more primary resources in your courses? Would you like your students to use more primary resources in their individual research for your courses? The Archives holds many unique primary sources that may meet your teaching needs. Subject librarians, reference librarians, and archivists are also happy to point you in the direction of repositories, both physical and digital, of the primary source documents you seek. For more information, contact the College Archivist, Donna Webber at x2440 or donna.webber@simmons.edu.

- AskNow

If you have a question about how the Library can assist you with your teaching and research, or if you have any other library or information-related question, AskNow. You can contact our reference services in the Library, over the phone, via email, or through live, online chat. We can answer your question directly or forward to the appropriate person in the Library. For more information, visit my.simmons.edu/library/asknow.
